

THE ONE BARREL AT A TIME CO-OP

Irene Burgos

Irene Burgos is a Green Interior Designer and Eco-Consultant. She lives in the Middletown area and has four children. She has lived sustainably for a very long time and loves that so many others are getting on board. She gardens organically and grows as many vegetables, herbs, flowers and trees as she can on her 1/2 acre. She composts all kitchen scraps for her garden enrichment and mulches all her flower beds with landscape cuttings using a battery powered mower. Irene collects her rooftop rain runoff in two barrels to use for all her watering needs, except edibles. She is saving monetary and natural resources which in turn help clean up our community, state and planet pollution crisis. She is thrilled to be part of this program so she can contribute to someone else's outdoor space with beauty, water conservation and a reduction in their carbon footprint.

Irene's barrel design is a work of art to enhance the lifestyle we adopt as conservationists. She hopes you enjoy her rain barrel creation and use it to do your part in cleaning up your local watershed.
