

THE ONE BARREL AT A TIME CO-OP

Joan M. Horn

Joan M. Horn grew up in New Jersey and has an Ed.D. from Rutgers University, the State University of New Jersey. She taught for over 30 years as an elementary and middle school teacher and taught GED classes in East Orange. In May 2009 she became a Master Gardener in Union County, volunteering her time in the herb garden and co-chairing the arts and crafts committee. Painting and sewing have both been passionate hobbies of hers for years.

Joan's barrel design is called "Flying Flowers." It is a glimpse into a butterfly garden. A garden of various green plants and colorful flowers sit in the background as many butterflies eat, rest, and fly in their garden.
